COLONY'S SOUND FINANCES

SURPLUS RISES SHARPLY

JULY REVENUE IMPROVES

A further increase in the surplus balances of the Colony is recorded in the financial statement for the month of July, showing that revenue exceeded expenditure by four and a half lakhs.

Revenue during the month was $2,940,287.24 and expenditure, $2,493,888.57, bringing the balance on the right side to $1,624,861.48, including receipts from the City Hall scheme of $1,267,500.

The ordinary surplus is, however, in excess of $16,000,000. Revenue appears to have picked up since the Budget debate. Several important heads of revenue show an increase in July this year as compared with the figures of the same month last year.

RAILWAY RETURN.

Duties, for instance, yielded $507,200 as against $467,415 last year, while under the heading Licences and Internal Revenue the shortfall is less than $20,000. The net increase (exclusive of land sales) is nearly $100,000.

It is interesting to note that the total revenue from the Kowloon-Canton Railway estimated at $1,288,860 for the year reached $927,906 in the first seven months.

LATVIAN NAZI DEMANDS

AN ANTI-JEWISH MOVEMENT

Riga, Oct. 27.

A demand for a referendum on an amendment of the Constitution based upon Nazi ideas is being made by the "Grey Shirts" (the Fascist group).

The demands include the prohibition of Jews participating in trade or industry acquiring landed property or marrying Christians.—Reuter.

London, Oct. 27.

The Council of the British Electrical Development Association have appointed Sir William Ray, M.P., leader of the County Council and a well known figure in the public life of London, to be its Executive Chairman at a salary of $5,000 annually.—British Wireless.

The name of the Share and Real Estate Brokers Society of Hongkong has been struck off the Register.

JAFFA GIVES A SIGNAL

MANY KILLED AND WOUNDED IN GRAVE DISTURBANCES

ARABS DEFY AUTHORITY

LONDON, OCT. 28.

GRAVE RIOTING OCCURRED IN JAFFA YESTERDAY AFTERNOON IN WHICH ELEVEN ARE REPORTED TO HAVE BEEN KILLED AND TWENTY-TWO SERIOUSLY INJURED.

The outbreak occurred when the Arab community formed a prohibited procession and clashed with the police.

Scores of arrests were made including a number of important leaders of the Arab Executive.

A grave situation threatens as the disturbances threaten to spread throughout other parts of Palestine. Already there have been incidents in Jerusalem, Haifa and Nablus.

Considerable unrest is noticeable among the Arabs who resent recent increases in Jewish emigration to Palestine.

GRAPHIC OFFICIAL COMMUNIQUE

An official communique issued by the High Commissioner of Palestine states that the Arab Executive Committee announced their intention to hold on October 27th a political demonstration in Jaffa similar to that disallowed in Jerusalem on 18th October. The High Commissioner received the President and the members of the Arab Executive on October 26th and informed them that no political procession or demonstration would be allowed in Jaffa but that members of the Executive would be permitted to proceed to the District Office and there hand in a protest or a manifesto to the District Commissioner for transmission to His Excellency.

INJUNCTION IGNORED.

Despite the High Commissioner's prohibition a procession was formed to-day at 12.30 p.m. in the neighbourhood of the Government Office in Jaffa. It began to move and was ordered to disperse.

This injunction was disobeyed and the police were assaulted. The police were compelled to make a baton charge to disperse the mob which, however, reformed and again attacked the police.

Shots were fired from the crowd at the police who were compelled in self-defence to fire a few rounds under control. Reports show that the police throughout displayed great control and forbearance. The Military were not called upon as the police had the situation in hand.

One member of the police force and three rioters were killed; seven other rioters are reported to have been killed.

Two police and twenty rioters suffered serious injuries. A large number of arrests have been made. There is complete quiet throughout Palestine with the exception of Jaffa.

HAIFA SHOOTING.

Since the issue of the High Commissioner's communique the police at Haifa found themselves involved with a disorderly Arab crowd and were compelled to fire into the air in order to disperse a threatening crowd, which assembled in the streets on receipt of the news of the disorders in Jaffa.

The Jewish families, fearing trouble, are now moving from the outlying districts of Haifa into the central Jewish quarters.

Another threatening situation developed at Jerusalem where one demonstrator was killed and several wounded in an encounter between police and Arab demonstrators, following the stabbing of a police officer. The mob launched an attack upon a police station in Jerusalem and in overwhelming numbers. Baton charges were ineffective and orders were given to open fire. The crowd then quickly dispersed.

NABLUS RIOTS.

Further disturbances occurred at Nablus, where police were again compelled to fire on a crowd attacking the railway station. Here one rioter was killed and a number injured.

The outlook is ominous.—Reuter and British Wireless.

STOP PRESS

Shanghai, Oct. 28.

The report that T. V. Soong tendered his resignation earlier this week is confirmed.

The resignation is due to the mounting financial difficulties of government.

Wang Ching-wei and Chiang Kai-shek are now exchanging telegrams with Soong pressing him to withdraw his resignation.—Reuter.

SURPRISE GENEVA ANNOUNCEMENT

Disarmament Bureau May Meet Earlier

Geneva, Oct. 27.

A surprise announcement was made this afternoon that the Bureau of the Disarmament Conference may be convened on November 3, six days before the date fixed previously. The reason is not known, but it is possibly due to the formation of a French Cabinet.—Reuter.

GOLD HOARDER ARRESTED

BOSTON OFFICIAL CHARGED

HEAVY PENALTY POSSIBLE

Boston, Oct. 27.

The first arrest under the Gold Hoarding Order was made in Boston to-day.

The man taken into custody was Mr. Gerald T. Driscoll, an employee of the City Government.

He was arrested on an indictment sworn by the Federal authorities, charging him with hoarding $10,000 in gold, which it is alleged he withdrew from the Federal Reserve Bank in March.

He has never, it is alleged informed the authorities of his possession of the gold.

It will be recalled that President Roosevelt in April last, following the abandonment of the gold standard and the bank crisis, ordered returns of all gold over one hundred dollars held by individuals.

The penalty for infringement of the order is fixed at a fine of ten thousand dollars and ten years imprisonment.—Reuter.

TREASURY BILLS

INCREASED RATE ON ALLOTMENTS

London, Oct. 27.

The total amount applied for in to-day's tenders for Treasury bills was $84,610,000. The amount allotted, in bills at three months was $45,000,000. The average rate per cent. was 16/5.294—as compared with 16/0.822 per cent. a week ago.—British Wireless.

Bus Engine's Feat

OVER 100 M.P.H. AT BROOKLANDS

London, Oct. 28.

A car equipped with an ordinary London Omnibus engine made a new world's record at Brooklands to-day when, in pouring rain, Mr. George Eyston, the famous racing driver, broke the existing record of 100.75 miles per hour for the highest speed ever achieved by a Diesel-engined vehicle.

Although the high wind and the wetness of the track necessitated the use of very heavily ribbed instead of racing tyres, Eyston covered the flying mile over two runs at an average speed of 101.983 miles an hour.

Over a kilometre, his average speed was 107.86 miles an hour. A maximum speed of 106.647 miles hourly was attained over the second run of a kilometre.—British Wireless.

DISARMAMENT TALKS

Meeting of Bureau on November 3

London, Oct. 27.

Mr. Arthur Henderson, President of the Disarmament Conference, this evening decided to call a meeting of the Bureau of Conference for November 3, instead of November 9, as was arranged yesterday.

It is expected that important conversations will meanwhile have taken place at Geneva.—British Wireless.

PANTER CASE

FURTHER LIGHT ON INCIDENT

ACCUSED SEEN IN CUSTODY

BRITISH CONSUL'S REQUEST

London, Oct. 27.

The British Consul-General in Munich, Mr. Gainer, who since Tuesday has been denied access to Mr. Noel Panter, the Munich correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, was to-day permitted to visit him at Munich Police Headquarters, where he is held under "protective custody".

Mr. Panter is to be charged at Leipzig under Article 92 of Penal Code with high treason and espionage.

It is assumed that Mr. Panter's arrest is in connection with his descriptive report reproduced in last Monday's Daily Telegraph of a parade of storm-troops which the Nazi Chancellor Herr Hitler, addressed at Kelheim on Sunday.

Article 92 of the Criminal Code provides for punishment by penal servitude for not less than two years of anyone who deliberately communicates to another Government or makes publicly known State secrets or news of which he knows that to keep them secret is necessary for the welfare of the German Empire or the Federal State as against that other Government.

GOOD HEALTH.

The Consul-General found that Mr. Panter was in good health although pale from his confinement. He has been well treated and allowed to buy what he wanted.

It is stated that the charge is based on "an accumulation of information, concerning the Storm troopers and Hitler's Guards which was used so as to convey the impression that they were military formations and that Germany was thus violating the Treaty of Versailles."

ORDINARY WORK.

Mr. Panter declared that his message was sent in the course of carrying on only his ordinary occupation of a journalist and in sending ordinary messages.

Mr. Gainer has asked the Bavarian Government for permission for a legal adviser to see Mr. Panter.—British Wireless.

Reuter says that Mr. Panter may be charged with treason against the State, the penalty for which may be death or penal servitude for life.

THE HONGKONG SAFE

EXPECTED HERE TO-NIGHT

It is understood that the s.s. Hongkong about which some concern was felt yesterday is quite safe and is expected to arrive in harbour this morning.

She was compelled to make a wide detour to seek shelter from the typhoon, as was foreseen.

The Hongkong is bringing Home mail and newspapers and will be forty-eight hours late by the time of her arrival.

Provisionally and pending instructions from the Secretary of State for the Colonies, H. E. the Governor has been pleased to recognise Mr. L. H. Gourlay as a Consul for the United States in Hongkong.

FORD-ROOSEVELT FEUD

President's Latest Challenge

Washington, Oct. 27.

The feud between President Roosevelt and Mr. Henry Ford has been carried a step further by an announcement to the effect that the President regarded the clause in the National Recovery Act forbidding the Government to purchase products from concerns not under the Act as applicable to all dealers in Ford cars, whether they display the Blue Eagle or not.—Reuter.

TIN QUOTA AGREED

RAISED TO FORTY PER CENT.

RENEWAL FOR THREE YEARS

London, Oct. 27.

The international tin agreement will be renewed for three years from January 1, 1934, the quota being raised to forty per cent.

The new tin control scheme does not differ in essentials from the existing scheme. The standard tonnages under the new scheme will be Bolivia, 46,490 tons, Malay States, 71,940 tons, Dutch East Indies, 35,830 tons, Nigeria, 10,890 tons.

Slam's flat rate will be 9,800 tons until the quotas of the other participating nations have been raised to sixty-five per cent. when Slam's quota will be increased pari passu with all further international quota increases.

GOVERNMENTS ASSENT.

The Governments of Bolivia, Malay States, Dutch East Indies and Nigeria have accepted the recommendation of the International Committee that these export quotas be fixed at at least forty per cent. of their standard tonnages.

In addition, to the ordinary export quota agreed for 1934 will be a special quota of four per cent. of the standard tonnages. The committee estimate that this special quota will result in the export of approximately 300 tons a month during 1934. The next meeting will be held in Paris on December 7.—Reuter.

BIG SHAIKIWAN FIRE

BUILDING BURNED OUT

A serious outbreak of fire, fortunately unattended by any casualty, occurred at Shaikiwan shortly before 11.30 last night, resulting in the complete destruction of a three-storey building at No. 216, Main Street.

Two engines from Wanchai and one from Central reached the spot to find the building well alight. Within twenty minutes the flames from the ground floor had penetrated to the roof. It eventually caved in, bringing the floors down with it.

No difficulty was encountered in securing an early and sufficient supply of water from the mains, and within half-an-hour the fire was under control and confined to the building in which it originated. It was however not until 1.45 that all danger was considered over, and the firemen withdrew.

The building is occupied as a shop and dwelling house. The fire is thought to have been caused by a lighted joss-candle coming into contact with a mosquito net.

STYLE PRESCRIBES SHOULDER TREATMENT

INTEREST IN MID-SUMMER GOWNS FOCUSED ON SLEEVES AND BELTS

BY JOAN SAVOY

It's your own fault if you don't enjoy dancing on hot evenings. There are evening frocks of the coolest possible materials and they stay fresh and crisp. There is a casual informality about the fabrics which go to make up formal gowns for midsummer. Linen—the non-crushable kind, of course—looks cool and crisp. Furthermore, it makes you feel cool. One of the loveliest ones (shown on the left) is "black cherry red," worn with a white linen coat.

The detail on the shoulders and sleeves is unusual and effective. Three little shoulder caps, alternating two whites with a red, are cute as can be. The crushed belt of self material is held by a smart white circular buckle.

The white swaggar coat is exactly what the dress needs to make an interesting contrast.

A white crepe evening frock which doesn't have to take a back seat for cotton, linen or anything else, also goes in for shoulder interest.

The intriguing shoulder caps and the belt are of shining black lacquered satin with white polka dots to match the jacket.

Shiny materials are finding more and more favour both for late summer and early fall. Nothing could be more handsome than a white crepe evening gown worn with a shiny black lacquered jacket.

Waterproof linens are the most convenient things to wear in the summer when a little shower is apt to hit you at any time. You can get them now and they actually do resist rain as well as iced drinks which you are apt to spill on them.

Not that you are limited to linen when it comes to these new waterproof fabrics. Satin, crepe, cotton and all other materials can be found—and found waterproof—if you search diligently. Things are soon to reach the stage where women will welcome a nice, gray, rainy day. Even stockings, which always get muddy and streaked in the rain have been treated by this new process.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

Timothy left the sand lot with the other boys. The ball game was over and the crowd scattered lazily like the slow sparks of a sky bomb.

One by one the boys dropped away, down their own streets for supper.

Timothy said good-bye to Bert and trudged on alone.

Then he saw something through the bars of the high iron fence that sentinelled the Gregg estate. A dog—such a dog as he had never beheld before in his nine years of life.

It was a St. Bernard, and a big one at that. A regular elephant of a dog, and he was right inside the fence.

Timothy put his hand through and made a sucking noise with his lips. The dog came over slowly and gazed at the little boy with his deep bloodshot eyes.

Making a New Friend

Getting a whiff of boy, friendly boy, he came near enough to be patted. He suffered several pats and several strokes. Then he meandered on his own side of the fence toward the gate. It was an invitation.

Timothy found the gate open. The dog stood there as much as to say, "Well—are you coming in?"

He went in; the dog turned and leisurely took the lead.

He led Timothy down a driveway and to such a paradise as few people passing so far on the street dreamed existed in the city. Timothy could scarcely believe his eyes. A fountain, goldfish, an aviary of brightly coloured birds, a lily pond, and a flower garden with great blue urns setting about.

Yet Timothy wasted little time on these things. It was his dog friend he was enamoured of—the great, friendly, kind dog.

After a while a man appeared. He was very friendly, too. The family was away, he said, and he had to close the gates now, so Timothy had better go home. He could come again.

The boy laid his head on the dog's back. "Good-bye, Hector," he said, reluctantly, "Good-bye, old fellow."

On the way he met Bert. "See you after supper," said Timothy blandly.

"Huh! Ain't you had your supper yet? Gee, you'll catch it! I had mine a long time ago."

The sun was sinking. It was getting dark. Timothy ran in sudden panic.

A Courageous Decision

He thought of his father waiting to whip him. He thought of his mother, so quick with stinging words when she was nervous and worried.

His little body quivered. He wouldn't go home at all. He would keep on running—it didn't matter where.

But he turned back. This took untold courage. A soldier going into battle. He rushed headlong into the house.

"I'm sorry we're late, Timmy," his mother was taking off her hat.

"Your father and I were called to Grandma's in a hurry and we just got back. You must be hungry."

His father was in a good humour. He ran his hand through the boy's hair and said, "What you been doing, Tim?"

With a convulsive movement, Timothy wrapped his father's legs in his arms and laid his head against the big body.

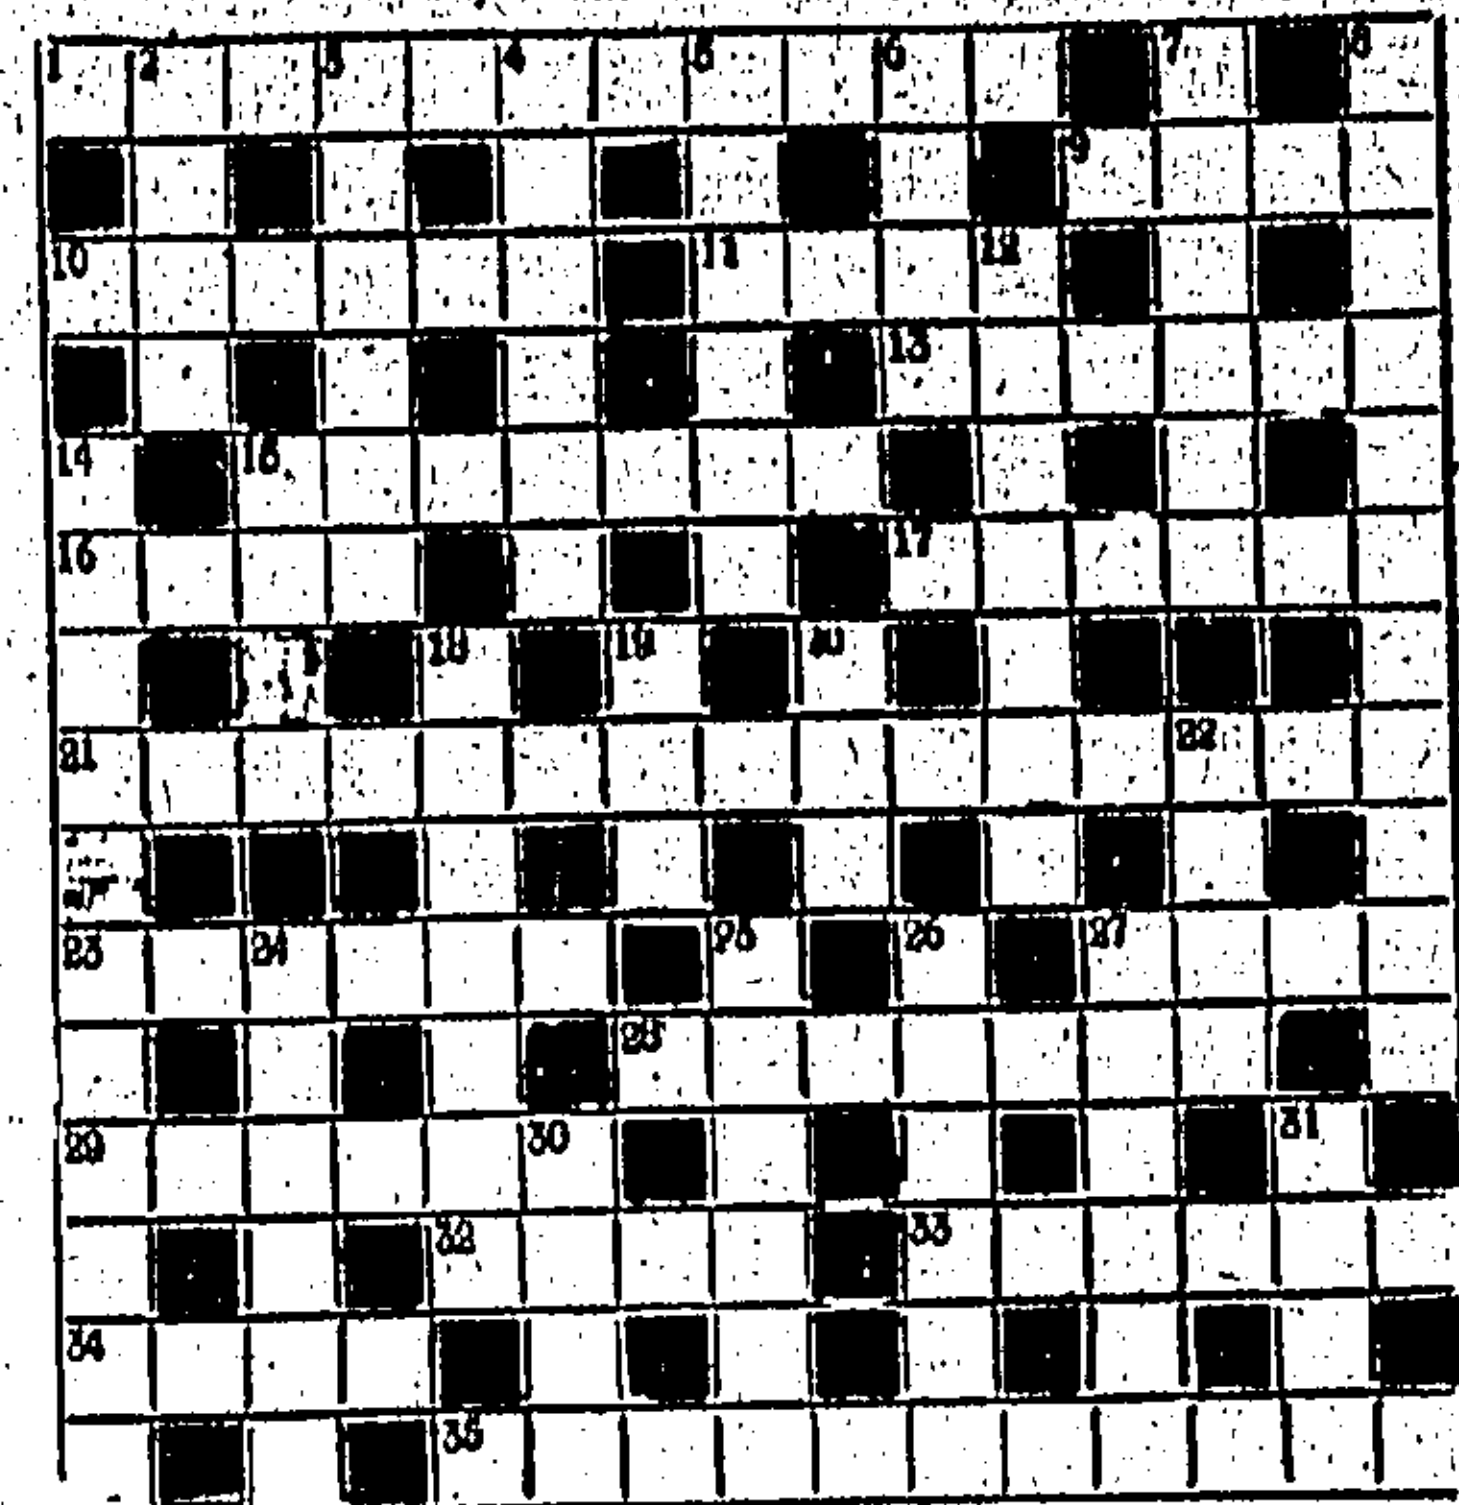

"Daddy," he said in his shrill little voice, "you're as nice—as nice as Hector."

There is a way to give your shoulders those smart extra inches. Just add a capelet with Ascot tie to a slightly fitted coat of tweed and achieve all the chic you desire.

Wool crepe, linen, broadcloth, or flannel can also serve for this serviceable coat style, worn with or without the detachable cape. This design, easily made, is in five sizes: 11, 13, 15, 17, 19, with corresponding bust measurements of 29, 31, 33, 35 and 37. Size 13 requires 3 1/2 yards of 54-inch material with the cape, or 2 1/2 yards without the cape. To line the coat and cape requires 4 1/2 yards of 35-inch material; 3 1/2 yards for the coat and 1/2 yard for the cape.

A Summer Mystery BY J. JEFFERSON FARJEON

CHAPTER XI

"Concerning Mr. Anderson"

If Napoleon Truelove was not, as he avowed, a silly ass, there were moments when he was an ass, and this moment proved to be one of them.

"Well, I'll be blown!" he exclaimed in astonishment, as the Italian waiter emerged. "And where have you been hiding yourself?"

Luigi was plainly flustered by the question. But then—as Leonard pointed out somewhat severely to Napoleon a little later—it is not usual for a guest to address a waiter in such terms, or even to know sufficient of a hotel's routine to be surprised at a waiter's temporary absence. Luigi's agitation, therefore, could have been ascribed to quite natural causes.

"Idiot myself?" faltered Luigi. "I no 'ide myself!"

"Mr. Truelove alludes to the fact that we heard Miss Fyne asking for you, Luigi," interposed Leonard, quietly. "She wondered where you were—that's all."

"St. al!" cried Luigi, his face brightening. "I go and tell 'er." He looked at Leonard, as though surprised at Leonard's lack of interest. After a moment's hesitation, he added, rather doubtfully, "You wonder, too, where I go?"

"Not particularly," replied Leonard, untruthfully. "Just because I tried to help Miss Fyne this afternoon by questioning you about another matter, it's not my business to supervise your comings and goings. I don't run this hotel, you know. Come along, Truelove—let's be getting inside."

"Rightly—ho," sang out Napoleon. "So rope," muttered Luigi, and stared at the collar over Leonard's arm.

"The rope—what about the rope?" demanded Leonard, speaking testily. "We're putting it away. Any objection?"

It was clear that Luigi in his heart was as curious to know what they had been doing, as they in their hearts were curious to know what Luigi had been doing; but neither curiosity was immediately satisfied. Luigi asked no more, and said no more. He returned quickly to the pantry which he had neglected too long, to receive a sound scolding from the maid, Florence.

"A lazy bag of bones you are!" cried the indignant Florence. "Leaving me to do all the washing up! Don't the men do any of the work in your precious Italy?"

"Italy all right," retorted Luigi.

"And I not out for long, no!"

"But you were out for too long, yes," snapped Florence. "Where've you been? The mistress was that wild!"

"Was she?" muttered Luigi, impressed.

"Was she? Was she? Of course, she was!" returned Florence, scornfully. "And there you stand, like a statue without a word of explanation! 'Where's Luigi?' says the mistress. 'Send him to me the very moment he gets back,' she says. 'I'll give it to him, the lazybones!'"

"Miss Fyne—she say all zat?" exclaimed Luigi, in astonishment. "She says more than that," cried Florence. "Go and tell her where you've been—and don't say it's to post a letter, because I know better than that, Mr. Luigi!"

"You know? What you know?" asked Luigi.

"More than you think, I dare say."

"Bah! You—how you say?—talking-machine! Jabber, jabber, jabber! Jabber, jabber, jabber! Ze jaws—up, down, up, down. Ze must give you pain, Maria! You know nosing."

"Don't I?" blazed Florence. "It wouldn't be a silly little girl waiting for you round the corner, now, would it—with goo-goo eyes, and a blanchmanse for a brain—The bell rang twice. 'There, that's for you, Luigi. Go and tell her a few lies, do!'"

Anxiously, Luigi presented himself at the hotel office, to find himself fixed by reproving brown eyes. "Where have you been, Luigi?" asked Jessica, quietly. "I wanted you a little while ago, and was told you were out."

"Not for long," answered Luigi, penitently. "I should 'ave ask, madame, but I s'ought it no matter."

"It always matters, Luigi, when my servants are absent without leave. You haven't told me where you went?"

Luigi took a deep breath.

"It was ze bicycle—ze poor Mr. Anderson, yes," he said. "I take it away for 'im."

"Took it away?"

"Yes."

"But why did you do that?"

"'E ask for it. 'E send for it."

Jessica puckered her brow, and in obedience to Leonard's scheme tried not to show her surprise.

"I didn't know Anderson was well enough to think about his bicycle," she said, slowly. "Did he write?"

"Yes. Mr. Anderson much better. 'E write to me."

"To you, Luigi? You know Anderson?"

"'E wrote to ze new waiter. Si. Si. Ze note come from ze 'ospital. No, I don't know Mr. Anderson, but 'e say please new waiter to bring 'is bicycle to ze village—place 'e name—I know it—and so I take ze bicycle, and give it to Mr. Anderson's friend."

Jessica considered this rather complicated story.

"I should have thought the bicycle was too broken to worry about," she commented.

"Ver' much broken," agreed Luigi. "No good. But 'e think 'e can get it mended, and ride again when 'e is better, yes."

"Well, that will do, Luigi," said Jessica. "You can go now. But understand this, please. You must never again absent yourself without permission. If you wish to go out at any times that are not your regular times, you must ask me first."

"I am ver' sorry. I s'ink only of poor Mr. Anderson. S'ank you, madame."

He bowed himself away, nearly bumping into Leonard as he left the office. Leonard had just entered the hotel with Napoleon, and while the latter had made a bee-line for the drawing-room, Leonard was lingering for a few words with Jessica.

"Well, what had he to say for himself?" he enquired, as the waiter alighted out of sight. "Mr. Truelove and I met him at the shed before we came in, but we thought it best to let you do the questioning."

Jessica repeated the conversation, and then looked at her adviser questioningly.

"A bit far-fetched," pronounced Leonard. "But it might be true."

"No, it might be true," replied Jessica Fyne. "For it's only ten minutes since I opened a letter telling me that Anderson died this morning."

"By Jove!" muttered Leonard, and read the note which she handed to him. "Well, that's definite enough, isn't it?"

"Yes—rather startlingly definite," she said, gravely. "I simply longed to thrust that letter under Luigi's nose!"

"Why didn't you?"

"Because I knew you'd disapprove."

"And you trust my wisdom as much as that?"

"I've no one else's wisdom to trust. Oh, what does it all mean, Mr. Setton? Why are all these extraordinary things happening? Can we sit patiently till we make our discoveries? Aren't more things happening, while we wait?"

He did not answer for a long while. Her outburst, which was no reflection upon him but was the mere expression of her sense of impotence, had the effect of making him rapidly reconsider his policy and the strokes he was about to play. Three minutes went by. Then he said:

"We're not sitting patiently till we're making our discoveries, Miss Fyne. We're working towards those discoveries. Perhaps you can trust my word for that. And as for the more things that are happening, I'm thinking of those, too, and my whole object is to prevent them from happening—to avoid precipitating them. I want to know who the guilty parties are, and to prove their guilt."

"Does it matter for the moment? We know the guilt exists. Take Luigi, for instance. He's just lied to you. If you had shown him that letter, you would have proved his lie, but not the object of it, and what would have been the use? Luigi would probably have disappeared again, this time for good. Luigi's a link—a link in the chain—we mustn't lose him just yet."

He closed his eyes. With his eyes still closed, he continued, "Of course, we do know something. We know that Luigi didn't want us to examine that bicycle. Now, why didn't Luigi want us to examine that bicycle?" He opened his eyes suddenly, and stared at her. "Perhaps there was something about the bicycle that would have proved it had been tampered with? Perhaps Anderson's accident was arranged, and our friend Mr. Luigi was afraid the bicycle, if examined by an interfering new visitor, might reveal its unpleasant secret. I dare say you see now, Miss Fyne, why I'm so anxious to work quickly. I've been too officious already."

"But why should Anderson's accident have been arranged?" she asked. "I can't see that. He was a nice, quiet fellow. I can't believe he had any enemies."

"We can't always be sure of our enemies, any more than we can always be sure of our friends," replied Leonard. "I'm not suggesting that Anderson had enemies, though. We'll assume, for the moment, that he hadn't. In that case, the person who arranged Anderson's accident may merely have been after his job. It's certainly interesting that the man who's got his job is the man who's got rid of the bicycle."

Suddenly, noting her paleness, Leonard changed his tone. "Well, anyway, you can't do any more at the moment, Miss Fyne. May I suggest an early bed for you? And sleep?"

"Yes, I am tired," she answered, wearily. "When I've made up my books, I shall take your advice."

AMERICAN-SOVIET RELATIONS.

LITVINOFF TO INTERVIEW ROOSEVELT

Moscow, Oct. 27.

The Soviet Commissar for Foreign Affairs, M. Litvinoff, has left for Washington to visit President Roosevelt in connexion with American-Soviet relations.—Reuter.

For some years past, efforts have been made to re-establish diplomatic relations between Russia and the United States. Sentiment in America has gradually come to favour the resumption, particularly since the Soviet now offers an attractive market for American products. It is generally felt that M. Litvinoff's mission will be attended with success.

But it's not easy to sleep. "It would please me immensely," he exclaimed, as she took the hand he held out, "if I could feel you'd sleep a little better to-night than you slept last night. After all, you've got one more friend under the roof, you know."

"The best friend, I think," she answered, and then, fearing that she had said more than she had meant to, she withdrew her hand rather quickly and opened a ledger.

"Good-night, in case I don't see you again," he said.

"Good-night, Mr. Setton," she replied. "And thank you."

He went along the hall towards the drawing-room, and as he drew near, he heard voices raised.

"Just because a fellow's a good swimmer, that's no reason why others can't be just as smart in other ways—dash it all, swimmers haven't got all the pluck!"

The speaker was Napoleon Truelove, and he appeared to be pulsing with indignation.

"I'm sure there's no need to get so excited," came Miss Haines' soothing tones.

"Excited? I'm not excited!" cried Napoleon. "But I can't stand all his silly hero talk! Why, for twopenny, I'd take a boat and row out to the wreck myself this very night!"

"What—with no moon?" jeered Guy. "I can see you doing it!"

Leonard smiled, and turned away—and, as he did so, met the eyes of old Mr. Griddle.

"Our young friend is in a somewhat volcanic mood," he observed, genially. "Well, I don't think I'll stay up and listen to him. I'm off to bed. Good-night."

FATAL ACCIDENT

LORRY DRIVER CHARGED AT KOWLOON

Before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday afternoon, Kong Sau, driver of motor lorry No. 1665, was charged with knocking down and killing a Chinese girl, Siu Yuk Kwong, in Kwellin Street on October 11. Inspector Saunders, Traffic Department, Kowloon, prosecuted.

Dr. J. B. Mackie, medical officer at the Kowloon Hospital, said that on October 14 he had conducted a post-mortem on Siu Yuk Kwong, a Chinese girl aged ten years. The body was identified in the presence of Sergeant A.R. Brittain, by Tam Sau Wai, the child's mother, and by a man whom witness took to be the defendant, Kong Sau.

The cause of death was a fracture in the vault of the skull and subdural hemorrhage. From the indications on the body, these were consistent with having been knocked down by a motor lorry.

Relatives' Evidence.
 Tam Sau Wai, mother of the deceased, gave evidence of identifying her daughter at the Mortuary. She had seen the girl on the road immediately after the accident.

The girl, who had always been in good health, had been sent out to buy needles and was returning to her home when knocked down. Siu Yuk Kwong, elder sister of deceased, explained that when leaving the house that morning to buy some cakes, she saw her sister running across the road. At the same time, a lorry coming quickly down the street, knocked her down. The lorry was travelling on the left hand side of the road and witness thought her sister had been knocked down by the bonnet of the lorry, but, as she was standing on the pavement behind the lorry, she was not certain. After the accident, the lorry passed over the girl and witness saw the body appear from under the back of the vehicle. The lorry then drove away and turned into Cheung Sha Wan Road, witness noticing the number, 1665.

The defendant, from the dock, declared that the girl had not been present at the time of the accident. He alleged that another man, staying on the same floor as last witness, had seen the accident and made the girl tell the above story. The last witness agreed that a man, Lam Tseng, who stayed near them, had witnessed the accident but had not said anything to her. The man had left the house soon afterwards and was now staying in a house near Kwellin Street. Inspector Saunders suggested that possibly the girl was mixing this man up with a street-coolie who had witnessed the accident but was now in Macao. However, the girl was positive that there had been two other witnesses of the accident, the street-coolie and Lam Tseng.

Defective Brakes.

Sergeant J. Scrimm, Vehicle Inspector attached to the Kowloon Traffic Department, in evidence said that he had inspected lorry No. 1665 on October 11, the day before the accident, and had found the brakes to be defective. On October 18 the vehicle was again produced, the brakes being in the same condition.

The next day, Sergeant Brittain informed witness that the lorry was in the Taim Sha Tsui compound and that there had been a fatal accident. Witness recognised the vehicle as the one he had failed. He inspected the brakes again, which were in the same defective condition, the brake lining being polished in parts and worn. Witness saw on marks of any collision. As far as he could see, all that had been done was to oil the expanding portion of the brake. When driving at 20 m.p.h. and applying the brakes, nothing happened until the speed had decreased to five m.p.h. then the brake locked. When the speed of the vehicle became low, the brakes gripped, this being due to the polished surface of the lining.

At this point, the case was adjourned until next Wednesday afternoon. The Police are now looking for the street-coolie and Lam Tseng.

CRAFT IN CUBA

AMAZING REVELATIONS AT BANK INQUIRY

Washington, Oct. 27.
 Remarkable revelations were made during an inquiry into the Chase National Bank's loans to Cuba, by the Banking Investigation Committee of the Senate.
 At the request of Mr. Aldrich, President of the Bank, part of one of the Bank's letters was suppressed on the ground that it might lead to violence in Cuba.
 Allegations of enormous graft and waste by Cuban officials were made.
 It was stated that $18,000,000 was unnecessarily spent on the Capitol in Havana and $40,000,000 on the Havana waterworks. It was also revealed that President Machado threatened a full default unless the Chase Bank advanced $4,000,000.—Reuter.

CARUSO'S SON

HEAVILY FINED AND SENT TO GAOL

Bologna, Oct. 27.
 Enrico Caruso, son of the famous singer, was sentenced to two years in prison and fined 1,500 lire for alleged assault on a peasant, who was permanently injured.
 Enrico's brother, Rodolfo, was also accused but was acquitted.—Reuter.

HALLOWE'EN NIGHT
SCOTTISH VOLUNTEERS DINNER

A large gathering of local Scotsmen attended the Halloween dinner given by the Scottish Company of the Hongkong Volunteer Defence Corps at their headquarters last night, and the spirit of Scotland was re-created in the stirring skirl of the bagpipes and the sight of the brave laddies in kilts.

The Scottish Company attended at full strength under their commanding officer Capt. H. H.
Forsyth, who presided at the dinner.

Among the prominent Scotsmen present were:—Mr. A. L. Shields, chieftain; Col. L. G. Bird, O. C.
Hongkong V.D.C.; Mr. A. S.
Mackiehan, vice-chieftain; Mr. B.
Wylie; Lieut. W. Galleley, Major
H. B. L. Dowbiggin, Capt. H.
Wilkinson, Capt. N. A. Johnson,
Capt. H. Owen Hughes, and Messrs. J. D. Grant, J. B. Ross,
E. J. Osborne, J. W. C. Bennet,
W. H. E. Thomas, R. McLeay, L. W.
Amps and the Rev. E. Powell.
The "Bill O'Far" opened with "Bross an' Butter." The pipes playing the familiar song:—
"Some hae meat an' canna eat
And some wee eat that want it,
But we hae meat an' we can eat,
So let the Lord be thankit."

Haggis Piped In.

The menu included, "Guid
Scotch Broth," "Tawties An'
Herrin," "The Haggis," "Hielan' Yowc," "A' the Tairt," and "Ban-nocks an' Cheese."

The Haggis was piped in by Messrs. A. Birch, D. C. Brodie, and
A. Chapman, and the repeat fittingly concluded with:—
"An' noo that we hae feasted thus

Which we see little merit
Let Meg nae tak awa the flesh
An' Jock bring in the speerit!"
Captain Forsyth proposed the Loyal Toast and after the company had sung, "Scots Wha Hae," he put the toast of the visitors.
Outlining the work of the Scottish Company during the year, he said they had had their ups and downs but they were now on the mend. Their activity and enthusiasm just now was extraordinary good but he would be glad of a little more support from the Scottish community. Their outstanding strength was their pipe band for which Piper Mackie was responsible.

Piper Watson he said, did exceedingly well in the interport shoot, when the Scottish Company scored 769, Shanghai 818 and Singapore 807.

Chieftain Welcomed

He extended congratulations and a sincere welcome to their newly elected Chieftain Mr. A. L. Shields.
His appointment was most popular,
as was also the election of Mr.
Mackiehan as Vice-Chieftain. It was almost unnecessary to emphasize their welcome to their Commandant, Col. Bird, who was part and parcel of the institution, and to Captain Wilkinson, newly appointed Adjutant to the Hongkong V.D.C.

The toast was drunk with musical honours by the Company.

Mr. Shields said he was privileged to answer on behalf of the guests, and in reply to Capt.
Forsyth's remarks, said he had been a "humble member" of St.
Andrews Society for many years.
Speaking to those present, whether they came from "Glasgow or Argyll," "Perth or Sutherland or Fife," he said he felt sure they always enjoyed coming to these hospitable celebrations, and the splendid fellowship of the Scottish Company.

Captain Forsyth, at this point reminded the Company that he had a pleasant duty to perform in handling to Mr. C. T. Stopani-Thompson a silver salver from the Company as a wedding present and wished him the happiest possible future.
Mr. Stopani-Thompson suitable replied.

The programme included a song by the "Linkumoddle Linties," a sword dance by Lieut. C. P. Saunderson, songs by the Company and a pipe selection. The accompanist was Private J. J. Ferguson.

"Dookin' For Apples," preceded the singing of "Auld Lang Syne", which concluded the proceedings.

TWO MEN KILLED
MOTOR LORRY FALLS NINETY
FEET

Two workmen were killed and three injured when a motor lorry carrying a load of bamboo poles plunged over the side of the road between Aberdeen and Stanley yesterday afternoon.

The mishap occurred about 3 p.m. and although the Police conducted a thorough investigation, it is not yet definitely known what caused the vehicle to leave the roadway.

The lorry, which is believed to belong to a building contractor of Hollywood Road, was taking a load of bamboo poles to Stanley and when about 300 yards from the Deepwater Bay Golf Course, it plunged over the side of the road and dropped approximately 90 feet.

There were five persons on the lorry, including the driver and all were thrown out of the vehicle.
Two of the men sustained injuries from which they succumbed but the other three were not seriously hurt. Two received head injuries and another had a leg broken.

The injured men were taken to the Government Civil Hospital where they received treatment.
The lorry was wrecked.

HARBOUR COLLISION.
MERIDIAN STAR AND KOWLOON DOCK LAUNCH INVOLVED

A minor collision between the Meridian Star and one of the small Kowloon Dock launches, K.5, occurred as the Star ferry boat was making the cross-harbour trip at 2.45
yesterday afternoon.

The Meridian Star had just left the Kowloon ferry wharf when the K.5, coming up on her port side, struck the stern half of the ferry boat. Fortunately the launch had slowed down to allow the Meridian Star to pass, and escaped with slight damage to her bow about a foot above the water line.

FORD SUCCESS

FIRST SEVEN PLACE IN ROAD RACE

Detroit, Michigan.

All previous records for the Famous Elgin National Road Race were shattered when a Ford V-8 won the Joseph Wendenhoff Trophy Race for stock cars of American manufacture in the 203-mile grind at Elgin, Ill., last Saturday. The race was conducted under the rules of the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association and was sanctioned by that organization.

The winning Ford V-8, piloted by Fred Frame, Indianapolis Speedway champion last year, lowered the mark set in 1920, in the last previous running of the race, by Ralph DePalma, famous race driver, in a high-powered car. Frame's average speed was 80.22 miles per hour. DePalma's record was 79.5 miles per hour. The Ford V-8 negotiated the 203-mile course in 2 hours, 32 minutes, 6.1 seconds.

Fifteen cars were entered, including Fords, Chevrolets, a Plymouth and a Dodge. Fords took the first seven places in the event. The Plymouth finished in eighth place. The other cars either were forced out of the race by mechanical failures or were flagged when the race was declared finished.

Frame in the winning Ford V-8 took the lead in the first 8 1/4-mile lap and led every lap thereafter with the exception of the twelfth when he stopped at the pits one minute and 20 seconds for gasoline, oil and water. This was Frame's only stop in driving what race officials described as a perfect race around the picturesque but treacherous course of concrete, bituminous macadam and gravel, with its four perilous turns.

A Ford V-8 entered and piloted Brisko, after completing the morning race over the 203-mile course for the Wendenhoff trophy at an average speed of 77.98 miles per hour, was the lone stock car to finish in the afternoon race over the same distance for the Elgin Watch Company trophy. The other four to finish were specially-built racing cars. Eight of the 14 entrants in this race were forced out because of mechanical trouble before half the distance had been run. This Ford thus became the only car in either the stock car race or the free-for-all to complete the course twice on the day of the races.

The highly consistent performance of the Ford V-8 cars finishing in the stock car race is revealed by the race records. The difference in elapsed time for the race between the first and seventh Fords to finish was only 6 minutes, 35.6 seconds and the difference in their average speeds for the course only 3.33 miles per hour. The results were:

Car	Driver	Miles per hour
1-Ford V-8 Fred Frame		80.22
2-Ford V-8 Lou Moore		79.57
3-Ford V-8 Jack Pettit		78.17
4-Ford V-8 Eugene Haustein		78.09
5-Ford V-8 Frank Brisko		77.98
6-Ford V-8 Russell Snowberger		77.52
7-Ford V-8 Shorty Cantlon		76.50
8-Plymouth Bill Cummings		75.11

Until we learned better

Henry Ford Dearborn, Mich.

Until we learned better, we used to mix wood and steel in our car bodies and wheels.

It was the best way to make bodies—then. But the state of the art has advanced.

Of course, it is more expensive to make an all-steel body than to make a wooden frame and nail steel panels on to it. The better way involves an initial expenditure of several millions of dollars for new dies, which renders a change very costly. Cars, especially large expensive cars which are produced in small volume, cannot afford this, because the dies cost as much for one car as for a million. That alone explains why all-steel bodies are not used in all cars.

But our basic policy from the beginning is to make a good car better, regardless of cost.

For example, when we discarded wood-steel body construction, it was not because we lacked wood. We still have some thousands of acres of the best hard wood in America. Economy would urge us to use up the wood first, and then adopt the better all-steel body. But we decided that quality was more important than expense.

We weighed the reasons, for and against, before we made the change.

We could see only one reason for retaining a mixed wood-and-steel body—nailing the metal on, instead of welding an all-steel body into a strong one-piece whole. That reason was, it would be cheaper—for us.

Our reasons for adopting an all-steel body were these: A wood-steel body is not much stronger structurally than its wooden frame. In all American climates, wood construction weakens with age. Every used car lot gives evidence of this. Rain seeps in between joints and the wood decays. A car may have a metal surface, and yet not be of steel construction. Under extreme shock or stress the steel body remains intact—dented perhaps, but not crushed.

Steel does not need wood for strength or protection. Wood is fine for furniture, but not for the high speed vehicles of 1933.

In the Ford body there are no joints to squeak, no seams to crack or leak.

The all-steel body is more expensive—to us, but not to you.

By all odds, then, steel bodies seem preferable.

Wheels also have become all-steel. No one argues that an electrically welded one-piece steel wheel, such as the Ford wheel, needs to be "strengthened" by adding wood to it.

The one-piece all-steel body is the strongest, safest, quietest, most durable body made. That is our only reason for making them.

TRADE REVIVAL IN BRITAIN

Reports of business conditions in England continue to be reassuring. The improvement is less noticeable in the North than in the South; but it is gradually spreading through the country as a whole and there are good grounds for expecting that the forward progress will continue. The re-employment of men in thousands is one of the determining factors. As larger sections of the community get more money to spend, so will fresh employment be created. It is a distinct reversal of the process operating up to twelve months ago. If we examine the position closely, we shall see that such progress as there has been in Britain may be divided into three stages. In 1931 the country seemed to be in the edge of a precipice, and not the least alarming factor was the serious adverse balance of trade—the value of goods imported being greater than that of exports and services combined. England was running into debt for the goods she was bringing in—her unemployed workers, in fact, were being maintained on credit. The first stage—and the National Government took steps with this precise end in view—was the wiping out of the adverse balance. Imports, both of food and manufactured articles, were restricted, and the country succeeded in living on its own resources, in the sense that she either produced what she used or paid for the imports with goods or services. That first success meant that the country was nationally solvent. But it did not reduce unemployment. On the contrary, the number of the workless increased. The accomplishment of the first stage demanded an attitude of mind which was incompatible with the second. It was not till the patriotic cry "economize" gave way to the patriotic cry "spend" that the second stage arrived. When that happened producers became busier in catering to the home market. They began to prepare food and manufactured articles to take the place of those which had formerly been imported. What has been witnessed in the first half of the present year is a forward move in purely internal trade. In this second stage Great Britain has been consuming more home products, with the result that 600,000 more persons have been absorbed in industry. The process is still continuing. But there can be no complete recovery for Great Britain until she is able to export more to foreign countries; and the third stage, that of improved overseas trade, is, at the best, only beginning; and it clearly depends on the consuming power of foreign countries. Here we pass from the domestic interests of Great

NOTES OF THE DAY

SOUTH CHINA BOYCOTT

First in Swatow, then in Canton and now in Amoy have small incidents occurred in which Japanese have been concerned. Is it just coincidence or is the gentle warning dropped by the Japanese—a little while ago that they did not intend to tolerate the boycott in South China very much longer being repeated, still subtly but a little more clearly? In Canton, a Korean is arrested in Chinese territory. In Swatow, a raid is made on the anti-Japanese boycott organization's premises. In Amoy, a merchant refuses to pay the rice tax and the Japanese consul demands the release of the consignment. Without making a show of force, Japanese officials concerned in these incidents calmly insist on their point of view, leaving Chinese officialdom to assume that Japan is prepared to back them up should the necessity arise.

CANTON TAKES NOTICE

Canton seems to be under no illusion regarding the real meaning of the developments and while not disposed to give way all along the line, has ordered an end to anti-Japanese propaganda. This is tantamount to discouragement of the boycott for once the activities of the so-called patriotic societies are checked, the boycott will simply collapse. This is South China being brought into line with the North. In Shanghai and in Peking, trade relations are already restored to normal. In Shantung there never has been any boycott and in Central China, the boycott organizations have been gradually suppressed. Japan's trade passing through Shanghai has increased by more than a hundred per cent. since June. A sharp rise in the figures for South China is to be expected soon, unless Canton makes a stronger show of fight than is now being exhibited.

DISARMAMENT

The disarmament issue has been shelved for five weeks and when the delegates are called together again will probably be re-shelved. Britain urges that the delegations should not be distracted by the German withdrawal and should go on with their work. But that means guarantees and assurances regarding Germany's behaviour and these will not be forthcoming in five weeks, nor probably five months. As the cynic has it, disarmament is becoming a standing dish; we shall be discussing it after the next war.

HITLER'S CHALLENGE

Hitler challenges the world to bring proofs of German aggressiveness. It is a safe enough challenge while the Nazi Chancellor does not explain what he means by aggressiveness. The proof of the pudding is in the eating and what those immediately concerned think about the situation and the likelihood of Germany's policy leading to squalls seems to be eloquently conveyed by the defence preparations undertaken in Switzerland, France, Belgium, Denmark, Czechoslovakia, Poland, and Austria. What the world wants is not proofs of German aggressiveness, but evidence of her peaceful intentions. Herr Hitler talks of a desire for peace and the narrow confines of the Reich in the same breath. Germany and the rest of the world do not appear to be employing the same language.

FASCISM IN BRITAIN

The one thing that Mr. J. H. Thomas failed to explain in his analysis of dictatorships, coupled with the claim of firmly-rooted democracy in the Empire, was East Fulham. Or perhaps he thought it better ignored. The real testing time is obviously not yet, though it would be as well not to feel too complacent. There are people who profess to sneer at the Blackshirts in England, declaring that the English are too self-conscious to join. But it is not entirely true. Recruits are reported to be enrolling at the rate of 300 a day, chiefly from the North of England. Sir Oswald Mosley is silent on the subject—his followers say that a good general does not reveal the strength of his forces. But he is still a long way from capturing the imagination of the masses.

Britain to the interests of the world. The latest returns of foreign trade show that customers have been at last in a position to take more of her woollen and worsted yarns, more of her motor vehicles, more of her iron and steel manufactures; and her imports of raw materials indicate increased orders for manufactured goods in the near future. Unqualified optimism would be foolish; but it would be equally foolish not to recognize that the situation, so far as Britain and her circle of customers are concerned, is definitely more promising than at any time in the last two years.

WHY WE QUARREL

By E. L. ALLEN

WERE we not told last century on unimpeachable authority that everybody is born into this world 'either a little Liberal or a little Conservative'?

A great deal of water has flowed since then under the political bridge, and Liberalism has suffered its eclipses and its sea-changes, so that we should have to find a substitute for it if we wanted to bring the lines up to date. But the antithesis remains nevertheless. There is a dividing-line which runs through and across the more obvious divisions of nation, creed, and so on, and which separates us according to something we brought into the world.

One might imagine that before we came on this earth, we had to pass in single file before a hat and draw out each one a slip of paper from it. Some of those slips have the word 'Stability' written on them and others the word 'Progress', and the lot we draw determines the kind of person we are to be. Usually there is a fair assortment of the two types, with a preponderance of the 'Stability' ones, so as to make sure that the world does not go ahead too fast. But there are times when the balance seems to have been done rather unsatisfactorily, and then we get, in one case, a generation which is dull as dish-water, and in the other, one which is as lively and vigorous as a typhoon.

NO PERFECT SPECIMEN.

We are constantly meeting this difference between the man who wants to stand still and keep what he has got and the man who is eager to push ahead and get something better. When a general election is held, one leader appeals to the country with the slogan of 'Safety First', while another cries 'something must be done' and proposes a vast scheme of State expenditure to restore prosperity. In religion, one man is born a Muggletonian, lives a Muggletonian, and dies a Muggletonian; his next-door neighbour is born a Swedenborgian, becomes an Anglo-Catholic at boarding-school, and a Unitarian at the University, and after a period in orders as an Evangelical, he passes over finally to Rome!

To be sure, no one of us is a perfect specimen of either type. Life would be impossible for the equivalent of either a stagnant pool or a perpetual fireworks display. In fact, nature is on her guard to keep the balance level within us, and any excess in one direction is usually attended by something which compensates for it in the other. Here is a man, for example, who never goes to church; the reason he gives is that 'it is behind the times'. One day, he is persued by a friend to go to a service, and as he comes out of it, he is heard growling 'Why don't they stick to the good old hymns?'!

FUNDAMENTAL DIFFERENCE.

All the same, the difference is real and is fundamental. In fact, it is quite possible that the difference between these two types of minds is more important than that between Asiatic and European, for example. Bring a man of the stability-type and one of the progress-type together, and you will find that they simply cannot understand one another. They do not really talk the same language, for though they use the words, those words have entirely different meanings. One man speaks, for example, of 'society', and means by it a soulless mechanism. They are both determined to do their duty, but 'duty' means for one helping is follows along the road of life; for the other following one's conscience whatever suffering it may cause to oneself or others. How can they agree? Probably, finding all other means of communication breaking down, they resort to abuse, and one man tells the other that he is a die-hard, a Tory, a stick-in-the-mud, and the other retaliates by telling his opponent that he is a Bolshevik and a dangerous person!

When we come to that point and find that we are up against each other, then is the time to remember that the real reason why we are quarrelling is not that one of us is right and the other wrong, but that we belong to these two different types!

WHAT WORLD NEEDS.

As a matter of fact, the world needs both Liberal and Conservative, or whatever we like to call them, and Britain has succeeded more than other nations in the modern world because she has always been aware of this. It is equally bad for a society to stay where it is till it rots and to move so rapidly that it is jolted to pieces! Jacob must stay at home and look after the flocks while Esau goes out to hunt and secure a change of diet for them both. There are the troops whose job it is to hold the line and those who go past them to turn the enemy out. If a country is to be opened up, some people must settle down, build towns and till fields, while others trek on into the interior. If we were wise, we should have our society a co-operative arrangement, under which one man would keep his foot on the plank to hold it steady, while the other took a glorious plunge off the other end.

What we have to do is to find out which lot we drew at birth, to which type we belong, and be true to it. It is useless to try to make ourselves other than we are. Nor need we, for the scheme of things have a use for every man, except the one who walks cautiously in the 'middle way', never committing himself. If you believe in stability, stand and fight for it; if you believe in progress, stand and fight for it. You will serve the world best so. Only fight without malice or bitterness, for the other man is not your enemy, he is fighting on the same side, but with a different weapon!

Europe will never be free from war-fever until they get the Germ out of Germany.

What China needs these days is not a leader but a referee.

The question is, what does Europe intend to put on the troubled waters—oil or blood?

A newly-married film stars says that she will give up her film career if her husband wants her to. After all a week or two won't make any difference.

During the week, the Secretary of State for the Dominions referred to "The Drug of Dictatorships." Aspirin to power!

An advertisement states that "there is no reason why people should suffer from gout these days." As far as we know, there is no reason why they should enjoy it either.

Relating an experience, a well-known deep-sea angler recently remarked, "I never saw such a fish!" We're quite sure he didn't.

"Most film stars have a double" according to a local cinema critic. In Hongkong, of course, the bottle is handed over.

Overheard on the Peak tram. "I always think that a special tram makes one feel so affluent." The emphasis should have been on the last syllable.

Elderdowns are cheaper this year. Down is down!

This week's Motoring Hint. Everything in the car should be tight, excepting the driver.

LEACH'S CENTURY

37, while the majority of the team achieved double figures.

AN ALL-ROUND MAN.

Stokes came in as ninth man, having just completed a soccer match and knocked up 16 runs before a halt was called.

Tom Madar came in for the lion's share of the wickets, taking 5 for 92, while Anstice got 2 for 76. Madar proved the most dangerous threat to the Interceptors and considering he is not even a regular bowler on the Rees' team, his performance is outstanding.

The Interceptors opened with Booth and P. V. Simpson facing the attack of Anstice and Rawsthorne. Rawsthorne was bowling consistently and runs came slowly, Booth going out by playing on to his wicket off Elliott.

O. G. Simpson joined his name-sake and snickered a ball at Anstice but the chance was not accepted and after the pair had scored fairly well, P. V. was bowled by Anstice. Pat Madar came on and the pair defied the bowling, though several changes in the attack were made.

MADAR'S BOWLING.

O. G. Simpson was caught in the deep off Anstice and Leach came on to score confidently. Pat Madar and the incoming batsmen sent runs up quickly and then Tom got Pat's wicket. Sinclair came in and began cautiously, allowing his shipper to do the scoring, and was nearly caught by Booth. Leach had a chance in the fifties when Tom Madar failed to accept a chance at leg and the pair began to force the pace.

Leach got his century and then was caught out in the deep, Sinclair not surviving long. Jenkins came and went quickly, thanks to the wiles of Tom Madar and Isaac and Mayhew had a stand until the former lost his wicket to Tom Madar. Madar was deadly at this stage and took Wilson's wicket, and after Stokes' brief innings the match was brought to a halt.

REVOLT IN SIAM

NO CONFIRMATION OF PRINCE'S DEFEAT

London, Oct. 27.
The Siamese Legation in London has had no confirmation of the report received from the Siamese Consul-General in Singapore that Prince Bovarade's revolt has ended, and that the Prince has fled from the country. It was stated, however, that the Prince had left the Korat fighting zone, but whether he had left Siam or not was not known.—Reuter.

Millions of Gallons maturing—
Older and better than ever

Never was your White Horse as good or as old as it is to-day. Years ago, exceptionally heavy stocks of the finest whiskies were laid down to anticipate sales which the quality would justify. These stocks are now fully matured. The result is that WHITE HORSE is now older and better than ever before, excellent as it was in 1932 and preceding years. This advance in quality and age will be maintained. White Horse is now the equivalent of a fine liqueur.

The area covered by the property occupied by the British Consulate-General can be realised from the aerial view reproduced above, which shows also the disposition of the several buildings within the compound. The roofs of which portions can be seen along the lower edge of the picture are on official residences along the Peking Road boundary. The main building can be seen in the middle of the grounds, with the Consul-General's residence behind it and beyond that the Rowing Club headquarters, which stand on ground once within the compound. When the rebuilding scheme contemplated is eventually carried out, existing buildings will be scrapped and a skyscraper built in the top right corner of the grounds, portion of the land along Peking Road will be sold and Yuen Ming Yuen Road, which is seen running up the picture on the left, of the grounds, will be widened. The property originally extended west as far as Museum Road, which is shown leading to Chapoo Road Bridge.

ROWING MAN'S 7-MILE SWIM FOR HELP

GALLANT RESCUE EFFORT

TWO COMPANIONS LOST AT SEA

A man who had swum seven miles in the open sea through the darkness of the night to obtain assistance for two drowning comrades was early the following morning found almost insensible crawling on his hands and knees in a doctor's garden at Sandbanks, Dorset.

He was Mr. John Carlyle, aged 27, a London business man, who lives at Shiplake, near Henley-on-Thames.

With two companions, Mr. William Gamble (34), motor engineer, Caledon-road, Parkstone, and Mr. Frederick Sydney Vale (39), a civil engineer, of Springfield-crescent, Parkstone, Mr. Carlyle left Poole Harbour in Mr. Vale's dinghy to see Scott Paine's bid for the motor-bout record. The men later decided to sail to Swanage, where they were advised not to attempt the return sail, but they decided to risk it.

CAPSIZED AT MIDNIGHT.

They were hampered by the mist and the strong tide. The dinghy capsized soon after midnight off Studland, when the men were struggling to make headway against the currents. They clung desperately to the upturned boat for two hours, and when they realised that there was little hope of being picked up, they decided to swim for the shore.

Vale was heavily handicapped. He had two artificial limbs and could not swim unless the limbs were removed. One knife was lost as the men tried desperately to cut his straps. The blade of the second knife was too blunt, so Vale was doomed to remain clinging to the boat.

Gamble and Carlyle considered who should remain with Vale while the other swam for help. Carlyle, the stronger swimmer, prevailed. He swam the seven miles in the open sea from the Bar buoy, two miles beyond Studland Head, to Sandbanks.

On reaching the shore his cries for help were heard by fishermen—who immediately put out in their boats—and by Miss Bridget Andrae, the 12-year-old daughter of Dr. E. P. Andrae, who at once awakened her father. Carlyle, almost insensible, had crawled to the doctor's garden.

The Swanage and Poole lifeboats searched all day but no trace for the two missing men were found. The dinghy was picked up off the Old Harry rocks.

HOW NOT TO GET SLIM

DIETETIC IDOLS SHATTERED

TOAST, BEER AND OYSTERS

Fat men are happy, so they say—but for every half-pint of beer taken by a man on a slimming diet he would have to play squash rackets for half an hour if he is to avoid putting on weight.

A slice of bread and butter or a dry martini cocktail would demand a quarter of an hour's squash rackets, while a dinner, such as was consumed by guests of the Middlesex Hospital Medical School, would necessitate 5½ hours' squash or, as alternatives, the climbing of a mountain the height of Ben Nevis five times, walking sixty miles, running thirty miles, or 60 hours in a cold bath.

These were some of the disquieting facts of dietetics which were described by Professor E. C. Dodds at the opening of the 99th winter session of the Middlesex Hospital Medical School at the Queen's Hall, London.

OYSTERS AND INVALIDS.

Any form of fatness, Professor Dodds stated, could be cured by the suitable application of dietetic principles.

"If anyone alleges that they increase in weight although they eat practically nothing," he said, "they are deluding themselves or their advisers. It is just as impossible for a person not lose weight when fed on a deficient diet as it is for a car to run without petrol."

Professor Dodds proceeded to catalogue some of the principal fallacies of allimming and fattening. Here are some of his statements:

Toast is more fattening than bread.

It is wiser to take soup and oysters than to eat a roll and butter while waiting for the next course.

Oysters are useless as an invalid food.

When beef tea is made for the sickroom the dog that gets the strained solid matter does better than the invalid.

LEACH'S CENTURY

IN INTERPORT PRACTICE

A HUGE TOTAL

The first day's innings of the two day-match between the Shanghai cricket interporters and the Rest brought about a surfeit of scoring by the former side, who batted throughout last Saturday afternoon and knocked off the enormous score of 386 for the loss of 9 wickets.

Included in this total was a century by the skipper, D. W.
Leach, who was on top of his form and gave a stylish display for his 109.

Apart from Leach's outstanding performance, his century being achieved in 80 minutes, during which he only gave one chance and scored 14 boundaries. Sinclair came in for applause when he partnered his skipper in a long stand and just got his half century, scoring a total of 57. Pat Madar scored 40 and Mayhew carried his bat for

TROUBLE IN WORLD OF SWIMMING

Miss Joyce Cooper's Ultimatum

London, Oct. 28.
Joyce Cooper, the holder of five British swimming records, as well as the world record for the 100
yd. back-stroke for women, will be practically lost to championship events at the peak of her career unless they are centralised. Miss Cooper has very definite views on the subject.

"I won't go all over the country, north, south, east, and west, and at intervals spread over many months for Amateur Swimming Association championships," she said in an interview. "I will swim only in the long distance championship, which always is held in the Thames, and nothing else so long as the present system of the Amateur Swimming Association prevails."

Miss Cooper, who is possibly Britain's most famous swimmer, in all has held about twenty amateur swimming championships.
She represented Britain at the Olympic Games at Los Angeles last year and she also toured South Africa.

NEW AUSTRALIA WONDER HORSE BEATS HAWAIIAN

Winooka, Australia's sprint marvel, won easily in his first American start at Tanforan, near San Francisco, when he beat the Hawaiian-bred Hue in a match race. Although not in top condition, carrying 120 pounds, and under restraint, Winooka showed he had blinding speed, and will furnish competition to America's best.

SHANGHAI LADIES TENNIS TITLE

DOUBLES CHAMPIONSHIP

4 INTERPORTERS IN SEMI-FINALS

MATCHES DETAILS.

Four members of the Inter-port team who played against Hongkong in 1931 figured in the semi-finals of the Shanghai Ladies Doubles tennis championship played last Saturday.
They were:

Mrs. Meadmore
Mrs. Prince
Mrs. Krenov (nee Miss Firth)
Miss T. Collaco

Mrs. Krenov and Miss Collaco survived to the final, although as opponents.

Mrs. Krenov with Mrs. Dvorjetz defeated Mrs. Qvadia and Mrs.
Mary 8-6, 6-3, and Mrs. Fisher and Miss Collaco beat Mrs. Meadmore and Mrs. Prince 6-4, 6-1.

Mrs. Dvorjetz, last year's singles champion, and Mrs. Krenov, a former title holder, had far more courtcraft, but the losers put up a sterling fight for the first set.

Mrs. Prince and Mrs. Meadmore were dangerous in the opening set against Mrs. Fisher and Miss Collaco, but the latter's combination eventually wore them out to succumb in the first set by 6-4, while the winners romped home in the second.

BIG BOXING AGREEMENT

JEFF DICKSON AND DAVE LUMIANSKY

London, Oct. 9.

An agreement of great interest to the whole world of boxing was reached in London last night.

It was between Mr. Jeff Dickson, the well-known promoter, and Mr.
Dave Lumlansky, who manages the affairs of such noted boxers as Jackie Brown (world fly-weight champion), Al Brown (world bantam champion), Johnny King (British bantam champion), and Jack McAvoy (British middle-weight champion).

For a long time there had been a difference of opinion between the two, and none of Mr.
Lumlansky's boxers has fought under Mr. Dickson's promotion.

The way is now clear for the holding of world championship fights in London, Paris and Barcelona, promoted by Mr. Dickson, in which Mr. Lumlansky's boxers would figure.

CHILDREN'S SPORTS.

Big Programme Arranged By The C.C.Y.M.S.

A special race open to English and Chinese Girls' schools is included in the programme of the athletic sports meeting organized by the Chinese Catholic Young Men's Society which takes place at Caroline Hill to-day.
This race will be run at 4.20 p.m.

Other events include races for English Boys' schools, English Girls' schools, Chinese Boys' schools, Chinese Girls' schools and members of the C.C.Y.M.S. A special race is open to every Chinese boy and girls' school, there being 46 events in all.

Mrs. Wellington, wife of the Hon.
Dr. A. R. Wellington, will distribute the prizes at the conclusion of the meeting.

AGAINST TSUI TO-MORROW EXHIBITION AT C.R.C.

ON WAY BACK TO BATAVIA

China's new 20 year-old tennis champion, Hsu Cheng-chi, will, if weather permits, make his first appearance on local courts to-morrow afternoon, when at the Chinese Recreation Club he will play in exhibition matches.

Hsu claims the championship of China by right of his victory over Khoo Hooi-hye in the National Sports Meeting at Nanking, although he has since been twice beaten by Gordon Lum in exhibition encounters.

His appearance at Causeway Bay to-morrow is bound to attract a large gallery, especially as Tsui Wai-pul, Hongkong's most prominent player is to be pitted against the new Champion.

Tsui has himself only just arrived back from Nanking, where he competed in the national championship. After the singles match which starts at 3 p.m., endeavours will be made to play a doubles.

BEATEN SECOND TIME BY GORDON LUM

TWO FINE SETS

Hsu Cheng-chi, 20 year-old tennis champion of China, was defeated in an exhibition game in Shanghai last Monday by Gordon Lum, China's Davis Cup player, the scores being 13-11, 4-6, 6-2, and 6-0.

Hsu won his title by defeating Khoo Hooi-hye in the National meeting at Nanking, and it was originally intended that the exhibition match at the Chinese Tennis Club's courts would be played between these two, but owing to his strenuous match in the Shanghai L. T. A. final on Sunday, Khoo accepted Lum's offer to play.

About 1,000 spectators witnessed the contest and with the exception of the first two sets in which Hsu and Lum displayed their best in them, Lum dominated the court.

Hsu possessed a powerful forehand drive and his network was splendid. His serves were swift and hard, but he was weak in back hand. Lum and Hsu had not before at Nanking in an exhibition game in which Lum overcame his opponent solely on his long experience. This time Lum gained most of his points on the strategic plays.

WEAK BACKHAND.

Hsu took the first game in the first set, but Lum succeeded in taking the lead by winning two games in a row. At one stage Hsu led by five games to three only to see Lum catch up to lead at six-five. Then alternate scoring ensued till the score read 10 games
all. With his clever court tactics and pretty volleys Lum clinched two more games in succession to win the first set at 13-11.

In the second set Hsu retaliated with his clean, snappy smashes at the net to lead by four games to two. Lum settled down to force his opponent to the back court with well placed lobs and tied the count at four all. However, Hsu staged a splendid rally to take two games in a row to be favoured with the decision, and brought the set score at one all.

In the next two sets Hsu played indifferently and served many double faults. Lum captured the third set at 6-2 and the fourth at six-love.

SCRAPPY FOOTBALL MATCH

SHAMEEN BEAT CLUB LUSITANO

A very scrappy football match was played on Shameen on Thursday, between the Shameen Sports Club and the Club Lusitano.
Shameen won by the odd goal in three, the losers scoring from a penalty kick.

As usual there was a large gathering of Chinese who display a keen interest in this game.

A. H. Madar Can't Play To-day

VICTIM OF INFLUENZA

A. H. Madar, the Interport cricketer, will be a notable absentee from the Interport Trial this afternoon. He has caught an attack of influenza, and is at his home at Causeway Bay with a high temperature.
His brother,
Mr. F. Madar, who was to have turned out for the Indian Recreation
Club second eleven against the Club de Recreio in a League match this afternoon is also down with fever.

MADAR.

The Hongkong Rugby Club will meet the Army in a friendly match at Sookunpo this afternoon, the match to commence at 4.30 p.m. The following will represent the Club fifteen—J. P. Williams, J. J. Ferguson,
W. B. Elgar, R. H. Griffiths and G. P.
Lumford. A. F. Jenkins and J. A. R.
Solby (captain); J. H. Bradford, D.
McLellan, S. H. Gered, G. C. Moutrie,
A. F. Walkden, D. C. Cumming, G. A.

Reserves—R. Sillard, F. R.
Burch, H. C. Mecke and J. Hutchison.

SEATTLE LAD SETS NEW RECORD

Buster Crabbe's American record and the world record for the 1000 metre free style swim were both broken by Jack Madica, Seattle youth, when he made the distance in 11 minutes, 37.2 seconds at the P.N.A. meet at Portland. He's shown with his coach, Ray Daughters, who also developed Helene Madison.

was arrested a few days ago, is to be charged with high treason.

This sensational development occurred to-day, following close upon the arrest of Josef Ackerman, well-known German journalist, who was suspected of supplying Mr.
Pantor with information.

The charge against Pantor has been laid under the penal code. If found guilty, he is liable to not less than two years' imprisonment, and if there are extenuating circumstances, to not less than six months' imprisonment.—Reuter.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

Today's Contract Problem

HOW would you, sitting
West, defend this hand?
North is playing it at three no trump. East opens with a low club and West takes it with the ace. He returns a club to North's king. North leads a low diamond to the ace in dummy and returns the jack of diamonds. Would you, as West, cover the jack?

North: ♠ Q 4 ♥ 10 2
♦ K 9 5 4 3 2 ♣ K 3
East: ♠ K J 7 6 2 ♥ K Q J 4
♦ A 10 ♣ Q J 8 7
South: ♠ A 2 ♥ A J 10 8 6
♦ A 1 7 ♣ 10 6 5
West: ♠ 10 8 5 ♥ 5 3
♦ Q 10 8 0 ♣ A 9 6 4
Solution in next issue. 4

Solution to Previous Contract Problem

It is generally difficult enough to arrive at a grand slam contract, but when each partner's hand contains a suit with 100 honours and the opponents interpose a bid, the correct bidding becomes even more difficult. Such was the case in the preceding problem hand, reprinted here, which I have selected from the National Individual Masters Tournament recently completed in New York.

The Bidding

Very few players were successful in arriving at the correct contract of seven spades. The proper bidding on the hand would be as follows: South pass; West one spade; North pass, and East should bid two clubs. The hand is not strong enough to make a forcing overall of three clubs. The safer bid, I believe, is two clubs.

South, not being vulnerable, now puts in a two heart bid. West makes a free overall of two spades.
This is a highly constructive bid,
and now East is justified in jumping to four clubs to show that his club suit is solid and that he wants the bidding continued.

South will pass and West should bid four spades. East's next bid should be five hearts. Not only does this show support for spades, but in addition it shows control of the first round of hearts. West should then bid six clubs and East will bid six spades.

West, knowing that his partner has control of the hearts and a long solid club suit, can safely go to seven spades.

Even though North holds four spades to the nine, the hand is a spread for seven odd.

THE LINDBERGS

TUMULTUOUS WELCOME IN FRANCE

Paris, Oct. 27.
Colonel and Mrs. Lindberg arrived yesterday evening by seaplane from Inverness, and alighted at Lesmureux on the Seine, close to the famous nudist colony.

They were immediately surrounded by a huge crowd. The adulation was equal to that evoked by Col. Lindberg's original exploit.

Crowds thronged the Place Concorde outside Lindberg's hotel.

Apart from officials of the Air Ministry who invited Col. and Mrs.
Lindberg to visit France, M.
Costes, the famous French ace, was alone aware of their impending visit.

Costes declared that Lindberg was as charming and modest as ever.

The famous pair are remaining in Paris for four or five days before resuming their aerial tour.

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

An unusual predicament compels Laurel and Hardy to become members of a bandit gang in their latest feature-length comedy, "Fra Diavolo," which opens shortly at the Queen's Theatre.

"Fra Diavolo" is a picture of Aubrey's famous comic opera, with Dennis King, the noted singer and stage star, portraying the Marquis de San Marco, who ingratiates himself into the good graces of all the lovely ladies while stealing their jewelry.

Laurel and Hardy are seen as a couple of carefree vagabonds. They have saved their money, and decide to take life easy. At which moment a couple of bandits hold them up and take away their savings. It then occurs to Laurel that it is easier to steal than to make money honestly.

Undertaking the career of highway robbers, they eventually confront Diavolo, known throughout the countryside as the notorious bandit chief. Pretending to be the great chief himself, Hardy soon discovers his mistake, but it is too late to make a getaway. The chief's band surround the comedians and make them prisoners.

Hardy is sentenced to be hanged. And Laurel is given the job of hangman. The comedians are saved temporarily when they come to the personal aid of the band chief who is in quest of a beautiful lady's jewels.

"Sailor's Luck"

Most Hollywood actors have played stock as one time or another. And they still love to recall those seasons. But few of them, even the old-timers, have trouped the country as consistently as Victor Jory. Victor has played "tabs" in Spring-Field; "rep shows" in Cleveland; one-night operetta stands in Peoria; legitimate drama in New York; and dramatic and stock from coast to coast and from border to border.

Jory's screen career promises to be as colorful if not more so, than his countless seasons as an actor on the legitimate stage. Perhaps you saw him as the barker on "State Fair." He sprang into overnight prominence with the portrayal of that role, and was immediately cast in a prominent part in "Sailor's Luck," now at the King's Theatre. He has a Fox Film contract and the initiative and ambition to become a great film star. There seems to be no doubt about that. Victor Jory is already well on his way to stardom.

"Zoo In Budapest"

One of the year's most unusual pictures, "Zoo In Budapest," with Gene Raymond and Loretta Young, is a real novelty on the screen. Filled with natural drama and climaxed by an episode quelling in terror the most dangerous ever filmed, "Zoo In Budapest" remains the movies' high point of entertainment date.

The main situation that of a young boy represents the ruthless slaughter of animals for their furs, is enacted before a background of growling wolves, vanguard tigers and other beasts of the jungle—all ferocious and as anxious to leap at their protector's throat as at their trainer's. But the drama is barely concerned with the activities of the animals; rather, it is the reactions of humans to the oppressive circumstances found in life itself.

"The Sign of the Cross"

Spectacle upon spectacle, magnificence outdoing itself—Cecil B. DeMille's "The Sign of the Cross" opened its local engagement at the Queen's Theatre yesterday and treated the audience to a vivid picture of pagan Rome in all its glory. Many believed, and steadfastly contended, that the day of the film spectacle passed with the advent of talking pictures. It remained for the master of the spectacle in the silent days to prove that sound had only served to increase the scope and effectiveness of this type of entertainment.

Here is unfolded the whole pageant of Rome in the time of Nero—at once the most dissolute and the most colorful period in Roman history. Here is the dramatic contrast between the palaces of the patrician Romans and the humble, hidden abodes of the early Christians—on the one hand the wicked Empress Poppaea in her luxurious bath of asses' milk, on the other, the Christian girl, Mercia, ministering to the tortured and hunted among the people of her faith.

And here, as a climax of the whole spectacle, is the Circus Maximus with its gladiatorial combats, its wrestling matches between black men and bears or crocodiles, its battles between Amazons and dwarfs, its chariot races, and its featured event—the feeding of the Christians to the lions. Here, in short, is an unforgettable panorama of an age of blood and licentiousness and passion and majesty.

Once more, as in the days of "The Ten Commandments" and "King of Kings," enormous crowds will before the camera, and once more, DeMille proves himself the undisputed master of crowd effects. The street scenes and the scenes laid in the Circus Maximus are masterpieces of mob excitement.

"I Loved You Wednesday"

Flying, collecting rare books, bowling, shooting, motoring, collecting old furniture, painting, sculpture. These are some of the hobbies of motion picture stars, but Warner Baxter made a unique reply to the question, "What's your hobby?"

"It's being out of doors," he said. "I prefer to work out-doors and to play in the open. I wish all my pictures were made under the sky instead of under a roof."

"Two of my most successful pictures, 'In Old Arizona' and 'The Cisco Kid' were made in the open and I enjoyed working in them more than any of the society dramas in which I have played roles. Sometimes I wish I could trade places with George O'Brien whose pictures are, for the greater part, made on outdoor locations."

"I spend all my spare time in the open, either on the beach at Malibu, on a tennis court or in my garden." Baxter, too, is fond of hunting and fishing and owns a cabin in the San Jacinto mountains where game and fish are plentiful.

In his latest film, "I Loved You Wednesday," coming on Sunday to the King's Theatre, Baxter has the role of an engineer, a part that took

3 Stages of a COLD!

And Relief Is Far Easier in the First Than in the Second or Third.

A cold ordinarily progresses through three stages: the Dry Stage, the first 24 hours; the Watery Secretion Stage, from 1 to 3 days; and the Mucous Secretion Stage. The first stage is when treatment is most effective. To stop a cold in the first stage, take Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. It does the four things necessary. Opens the bowels, kills the germs and fever in the system, relieves the headache and tones the entire system. Anything less than that is trifling with a cold. All chemist shops sell Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. Be sure you get that and nothing else. Cellophane-wrapped box.

WATER COLOURS

KOMOR'S AUTUMN EXHIBITION

Lovers of Art, who await the opening each Autumn of Messrs. Komor & Komor Exhibition of Water colours paintings, will not be disappointed for that famous gallery, which opens on Tuesday morning, contains many examples of the work which has made such men as Terauchi, Kobayashi, Yoshida and Kyohji famous.

On entering the Salon one finds oneself surrounded by examples of Art that is essentially realistic and impressionistic; studies from nature which are perfect and alive; flowers whose manifold shadings and shadows are so natural as to deceive the eye; mountains which stand out in the distance in that haze that adds such a touch of refinement to many of the studies of modern Artists.

There is not a copy or an imitation in the entire collection, every picture being from the brush of one or the other of the well known present-day exponents of an art that is noted for its generous breadth of idea, extreme simplicity and brilliant colour schemes.

To mention a few outstanding examples there are: Kyohji's remarkable "atmospheric" efforts one of which in particular is No. 64 "Fuji River" admirers of this style of painting, will find a large number to choose from. Of Kobayashi's pictures, little need be said, he is too well known in Hongkong. He is represented by hundreds of small pictures.

Terauchi stands out prominently with his dainty colours and strong effects, especially in his "Alps of Japan" which are inimitable.

The Exhibition will be open for ten days only, and the prices of the pictures are exceptionally reasonable.

A meeting of the Licensing Board, the annual meeting, is being held in the Council Chamber on November 10. The only new application is made by Mr. A. Ogilvie in respect of Airline Hotel, Nathan Road.

CONTROL OF RUBBER

FRENCH TAKE AN INTEREST

COOPERATION NOW EXPECTED

London, Oct. 27.

While the Rubber Growers' Association refuse to issue a statement regarding the restriction negotiations, Amsterdam has it that French participation is almost certain.

Reuter's Amsterdam correspondent quotes the Handelblad's London correspondent as stating that inquiries in well-informed quarters indicated that the question of French participation in a restriction provided the main topic of discussion at yesterday's meeting in London which was attended by British, Dutch, French and Belgian interests.

The presence of the French led to the suggestion that the meeting wished the cooperation of French Indo-China, previously reported to be against restriction, and Handelblad reports that French participation is now almost certain.

INDO-CHINA TERMS.

It is understood that the rubber growers of Indo-China will not

ANNOUNCEMENT.

The marriage between Henrique Alberto de Figueiredo and Amalia Maria d'Aesumpcao will take place at St. Teresa's Church, Kowloon Tong, on Sunday, 12th November, 1933, at 4 p.m. No invitations are being issued but relatives and friends are cordially invited to the ceremony and to the reception, following the ceremony, at No. 3, Liberty Avenue, Ho Mun Tin.

TEA DANCE DEMONSTRATIONS

ENTERTAINMENT AT ROSE ROOM TO-NIGHT

Making their final appearance at the Hongkong Hotel tea dances yesterday, Mr. J. A. Andrew and Miss Ursula Preston had their demonstration of the Quick-Step and Waltz warmly welcomed by a large and appreciative audience.

The waltz was given as a response to the insistent demands of the patrons. It was beautifully executed in the best of English styles.

From to-night, when they make their bow to the Peninsula Hotel Rose Room, Mr. Andrew and Miss Preston will nightly be demonstrating the latest dances both on the first floor of the Hongkong Hotel and the Chinese Restaurant.

Coincident with the appearance of the ballroom experts at the Rose Room to-night, Don and Sally will bid farewell to their large host of friends prior to sailing for Singapore. An uncommonly fine entertainment is promised for this evening.

be obliged to restrict their actual output, but in the event of a rise in production, a minimum will be fixed.

If the French agree to this plan, the chief obstacle to Britain's co-operation in a restriction scheme will be removed.

Mining Lane points out that the previous French attitude of non-cooperation has been one of the chief stumbling-blocks to an Anglo-Dutch agreement.

It is reported that the Netherlands East Indies Government has written to a leading planter informing him that any restriction scheme will be linked up with a prohibition of fresh planting.
